Dear Bob and Kirsten,

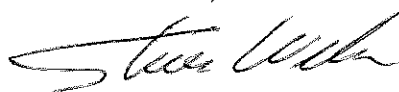

I can't thank you enough for the help and professional expertise you provided to us in the mounting design and installation of the GoggleWorks totem pole. I really believe that this work of art will become a monument and an asset to the neighborhood, the Greater Reading community and the GoggleWorks Center for the Arts. Quite simply, we couldn't have completed the project without you.

The evening of the installation was just amazing and you did an incredible job. Watching the faces of the carvers, mouths agape and wide eyed, was indeed a very rewarding experience. The energy from the onlookers was contagious. I witnessed people quickly getting on their cell phones and calling friends, telling them "get here quickly; you won't believe what is going on here." The job came off without a hitch.

I've been back to the GoggleWorks to teach my classes and you can't believe the reaction people are having when they see the pole. As parents bring their children to dance and other classes the kids immediately run over to the pole and look at it with fascination while pointing out their favorite crests and figures. Other people are posing in front of it for photographs or just standing and staring in admiration and amazement.

Your willingness to volunteer your time and professional expertise reflects Ludgate Engineering's continuing commitment to our local community and its contribution to the improvement of our city and county. Thanks again for all of your help and if there is ever anything that I can do for you please let me know.

Have fun,

Steve Weber
